Printing this deck

Paper

200–300 gsm matte card stock. Plain 80 gsm paper works for a first test but feels like paper, not cards. A4 and US Letter are both supported; the layout sits inside 210 × 279 mm.

Duplex

Print double-sided, flip on the LONG edge. Every back page is the same design, so a 1–2 mm shift will not show. Print one sheet first and hold it to a window to check the alignment.

Scale

Set page scaling to 100% or "actual size". "Fit to page" will shrink the cards by 3–5% and the cut marks will drift.

Cut

Cut on the corner marks with a ruler and a craft knife. Scissors work; cut slightly outside the line and the border absorbs it. A corner rounder is optional.

Finish

Optional: a light coat of matte spray, or press the deck under a heavy book overnight so it stops curling.

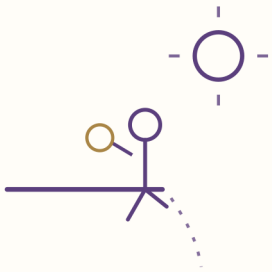

If you cannot print double-sided

Print the face sheets only. Then print one back sheet and use it as a template: hold each face sheet against a window with the template behind it and pencil a light mark, or simply leave the backs blank and sleeve the cards. A deck with plain backs reads fine; a deck with a slipped back does not.
